

Minor Chances, A Catcher on the Farm

MINOR CHANCES tells the story of the five years Harold E. Price Sr. spent in the minor league baseball system, 1944 to 1949. His son, Harold E. Price Jr. also had a shot at the minor leagues. Now his grandson, Colton, age three, seems to exhibit baseball potential. Also discussed is the history of the minor league farm system and how it works today. This comic is autographed by Harold himself! Blink of an Eye Productions hopes all lovers of baseball will appreciate this book.
