Alan Ryan, a respected country solicitor, has spent his life working to uphold justice and when the police tell him they believe his car was involved in a fatal hit-and-run accident, Ryan feels there must be some mistake. At the time of the accident his car had been lent to his wife's cousin, Keith, who swears he is innocent. When Ryan's wife repeatedly appeals to her husband to do everything possible to save Keith, Ryan is faced with the hardest decision of his life: to whom does he owe the greatest loyalty - his wife or justice?
